AN OPERA FOR OUR TIME: HADRIAN CONFERENCE EXPLORES OPERA'S PLACE IN THE 21st CENTURY

Toronto – Tickets are now available for Hearing *Hadrian: An Opera for Our Time, a conference on Sunday, October 14, 2018. Just one day after Rufus Wainwright's *Hadrian, with libretto by Daniel MacIvor, receives its world premiere, the Canadian Opera Company will host a day-long series of panels and guest speakers dedicated to exploring the themes found in the opera and its broader operatic context.

Hearing Hadrian aims to bring the long-buried relationship between the Roman Emperor Hadrian and his lover, Antinous, to the forefront of public knowledge and discussion; it also examines Hadrian's place within the larger context of 21st-century opera and queer storytelling. Who was Hadrian and what makes his story a timeless classic for a modern audience? What does it mean to write an opera in the 21st century? And how can traditional art forms, like opera, be reimagined to tell marginalized stories?

COC Associate Director of Education and Outreach Katherine Semcesen points to Hadrian's complex layers of themes and visual cues as an excellent catalyst for engaging discussions. “By providing a space and a forum for these types of meaningful conversations to occur, I hope that participants will develop a deeper connection with the piece and with one another.”

Linda Hutcheon, of the University of Toronto, is one of the event's organizers. She says “With the premiere of Hadrian, the time has come to explore the recent and welcome changes in opera that have now made this art form more musically accessible, more technologically dazzling, and more socially provocative—and relevant.”

Discussions will be guided by some of the country's top experts in musicology, gender studies, and classics and held at The 519, a City agency located in Toronto's Church and Wellesley neighbourhood that is dedicated to the advocacy and inclusion of LGBTQ2S communities. Hearing *Hadrian is co-produced by the Canadian Opera Company, the Mark S. Bonham Centre for Sexual Diversity Studies, the Faculty of Music at University of Toronto, and the Humanities Initiative of Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy.

The program features the following panels and discussions:

“Have No Fear: Opera in the 21st Century”
